CWR Monthly

February 2005

With tax season in full swing, time becomes a precious commodity. It with this thought in mind that I have decided to utilize the services available through the IRS website to assist you in answering questions that you might have concerning the 2004 tax year.

During tax season the IRS publishes daily TAX TIPS to assist taxpayers and tax professionals with questions they may have concerning a host of tax preparation issues. Since these TAX TIPS are readily available on the IRS website, I have decided to include them as a part of my monthly newsletters for February, March, and April.

Please follow the directions below to go to the IRS TAX TIP webpage that displays a whole month's worth of tax tips. You can then selectively choose which tax tips might be appropriate for the questions you have. (Key note: February's newsletter will provide the link to see all of January's IRS TAX TIPS).

It is my hope that you might discover some TAX TIPS to answer questions you have concerning your 2004 Income Tax Return.

For those who receive this newsletter by regular mail, I have selectively chosen, printed, and mailed some TAX TIPS that I feel would be most helpful to you at this time of the tax year.

Til next time,

Charlie
